Food for Thought

from Father Stephen

“And now, with God’s help, I shall become myself.”

Soren Kierkegaard was a Danish philosopher who suffered bouts of extreme melancholy, undoubtedly due to a difficult upbringing. One day he wrote in his Journal, “And now, with God’s help, I shall become myself.”

What a liberating thought: “And now, with God’s help, I shall become myself.” Not what others expect me to be. Not some unrealistic image I have of myself. No, with God’s help I shall become who I really am. No more stressful pretenses. No more misguided strivings. I will relax and be me.

When we feel accepted by Christ, then for the first time in our life we become free. When we are yoked to Jesus, we no longer have to prove to the world that we belong.

Updated Parish Website: www.corpuschristiparish.ca

Among the many features of the refreshed site are:

- A simple and fresh design;
- It is easier to access and navigate on your mobile device;
- The Home page is set up to provide faster communication with parishioners;
- The “News” tab permits easier access to the weekly parish bulletin;
- The “Giving” tab makes it easier for you to make contributions to the parish;
- The ‘Homilies’ tab gives you access to Fr. Stephen’s weekly homilies on YouTube during the lockdown.

Many thanks are due especially to Eber Antony for the design and structure of the new site, and for the tedious work of transferring and updating information. He was assisted by the rest of the Communication Team: Marie Matheson, Etienne Lefort, Donal Irving and Johanne Babb.

To access the new website, including archived bulletins and Fr. Stephen’s homilies, go to: www.corpuschristiparish.ca a mass near you and Church open to you!

We all look forward to welcoming parishioners back to Corpus Christi following this long pandemic lockdown. We are awaiting diocesan permission to set at date for reopening the parish to most activities. Meanwhile, the team has been hard at work preparing the church and volunteers for the reopening of our doors in the not too distant future. Once we have the ok, the announcement will be made on the website as well as by email and other means.

Although churches and other places of worship are opening throughout the province, in phases, be assured that: “pending a significant expansion of “deconfinement”, with most places of worship being open, without a limit on participants, the Archbishop of Montreal relieves the faithful of this diocese of any obligation to be physically present for Sunday Mass on church premises, until further notice.”

We will need volunteers once the doors open; people to help greet and guide parishioners at the door and others to be part of outreach teams, in person or by telephone. If you would be willing to participate in these ministries, contact:

office@corpuschristiparish.ca, 514-457-3896.

Remember the “little ones” – the homeless

In the first reading this Sunday, Zechariah reminds us that God has not forgotten Jerusalem and that He comes to her in the humblest of ways. In the Gospel, we are told that God reveals truth to the “little ones” who are hidden from those in positions of authority.

God cares profoundly about those who have been isolated, ignored, and injured. We too are invited to approach with humility those who have suffered, ready to listen to their experiences and attentive to the places where God is calling us to change – in our lives, in our communities, and in our churches.

Who are the “little ones” in our society right now? Have we been paying attention?

The homeless are often among those people who we marginalize. They suffered greatly during this pandemic, since they do not even have homes to shelter to and many of their survival routes were curtailed. Please give to Benedict Labre House: food, clothes, money, are all ways to support them. 9th Pastoral Letter Amid Pandemic Crisis

"A Church reaching out with open arms and doors"

Given that church doors have been closed for more than three months and the concerted efforts made by your parish or mission to reach out to people, you are keenly aware of the need for spiritual care that people of all generations require. In many cases, prayer life at home has grown, together with a renewed appreciation for the family as the “domestic church.” Meanwhile, so many people have told us how much they long to be able to return to church, be it for personal prayer, to receive the Eucharist, to become actively involved once again in Church life and in society.

Churches received the “green light” to open as of June 22; however, we remain mindful of the ongoing threat posed by COVID-19 and must continue to work toward prevention during the “deconfinement” process. From the moment visitors are welcomed at church until their departure, by providing guidelines governing indoor movement, personal prayer and liturgy, implementing the various elements of the diocesan protocol will create the appropriate safe environment that is so necessary.

As you implement the protocol locally, which includes posting your opening hours and mass times; observing the frequently mentioned measures of hand-washing, physical distancing and mask-wearing; refraining from congregational singing; and disinfecting the premises between celebrations, all these efforts help to reduce the risk of transmission through contact and the discharge of respiratory water droplets.

I would like to thank the Diocesan “Deconfinement” Committee for developing the documents and facilitating the webinars. The process entailed a considerable amount of work for the team members. Implementing the protocol at the local level will equally require a considerable amount of work for parish and religious community teams. However, when you see people eager to enter a church once again and to pray there, it makes all the effort worthwhile. When you see people whom you have never seen before come to church attracted to the faith, one realizes that, though we are sailing into the unknown, God never ceases to stir hearts.

The doors of your heart never closed, and I thank each of you for all the work you have done and continue to do. Let us continue to keep in mind those individuals and families who are still confined at home, by reaching out to them in a thousand-plus ways. Let us grow in our readiness to meet, to reach out and welcome, to accompany and to lead others to Jesus Christ. The People of God are thirsty.

May God guide us in standing together for the Mission, to be a Church close to people, and at the same time, a Church that reaches out with open arms and doors.

On the Solemnity of Saints Peter and Paul,

† Christian Lépine, Archbishop of Montréal

GRAND SÉMINAIRE DE MONTRÉAL IS RELOCATING

The Grand Séminaire de Montréal is relocating its facilities to the former convent of the Sœurs des Saints Noms de Jésus et de Marie, located at 6895 rue Boyer, in the Montreal Borough of Rosemont – La Petite-Patrie.

Presently located in the landmark 1840 building on Sherbrooke St. West and widely recognized for its cultural heritage, the seminary will move by the end of the summer from its historic downtown location, where, for almost two centuries, it has provided an excellent formation for close to 8,500 priests who have passed through its doors.

“This new arrangement will help us to focus more specifically on the human, spiritual, intellectual and pastoral formation of seminarians, while being situated in the midst of a vibrant neighbourhood,” said Fr. Guy Guindon, PSS, rector of the Grand Séminaire de Montréal.

The 16 seminarians currently enrolled – hailing from the Archdiocese of Montreal as well as from other dioceses of Quebec and outside the country – will resume studies at the new location at the end of August 2020.

Prayer ought to be short and pure, unless it be prolonged by the inspiration of Divine grace.

– Saint Benedict of Nursia
